Madeleine Kruspe

URBAN PLANNER

Madeleine is an urban planner with a comprehensive understanding of socio-spatial, environmental and sustainability challenges present in cities. She holds a Master of Urban Planning from the University of Melbourne, and has experience working in local government and private consultancies.

This experience has provided Madeleine with the skills to prepare planning applications and planning scheme amendments, and effectively collaborate with others across disciplines to reach the best outcome.

At Echelon, Madeleine has worked on a variety of projects, ranging from due diligence and planning applications through to research on local and state government strategic planning applications. This work has included greenfield and urban infill projects and residential, industrial and mixed use developments.

She also possesses a skill set in mapping and report production which allows her to visually communicate ideas.
